

REV. GEIGLEY IS "MAN OF YEAR" FOR FAIRFIELD

The Rev. Amos W. Geigley, fruit grower and civic leader in the Fairfield area for many years, was named "man of the year" by the Fairfield Lions club Tuesday evening at a ladies' night program at the Battletown hotel here.

President Robert Kleppinger, in announcing the selection of the Rev. Mr. Geigley said the award was made "as a public recognition of splendid service rendered over a period of years." He added that the organization plans each year to make public recognition of the activities of some outstanding member of the Fairfield community.

Cites "Good Deeds"

"With most men one would need to search the records to find out what he has done," President Kleppinger said, "but with Rev. Mr. Geigley that is not necessary, because all know of the many good things he has done for his community. He was one of the leaders of the old Fairfield civic group which later was absorbed by the Fairfield Community Fire company. He was one of those who established the Fairfield Community center, one of the nicest and largest community halls anywhere. He donated a lot of time and a lot of money, directly and indirectly to the construction and maintenance of the community center. He has been foremost in the giving of his time and efforts for good things in the community."

"When the committee in charge of the award met to determine who should be the first to be publicly honored many names were suggested. We considered them and their efforts were recognized, but when the Rev. Mr. Geigley was mentioned it was unanimously voted that he had

CAROLERS WILL START TOURS OF TOWN TONIGHT

Two groups of carolers are to provide Christmas season music in Gettysburg tonight and Thursday night.

One will consist of Gettysburg high school students, accompanied by a brass quartet from the high school, while the other will be made up of Gettysburg college students.

Miss Helen Keefeauver will be in charge of the chorus of members of the Gettysburg high school Junior Red Cross council and friends who are to meet on center square at 8 o'clock this evening. Prof. Edwin S. Longenecker will have charge of the brass quartet. About 70 students in all are expected to take part.

Series of Concerts

The high school youngsters will sing several numbers in the square and then will proceed to various sections of the town and to the Warner hospital to present carols.

The Rev. Howard J. McCarney said the college group will sing Thursday night.

Carol singing tonight marks the start of a series of similar concerts to be held from now until Christmas under the sponsorship of the Gettysburg Recreation Association, which is arranging a series of song fests by local organizations. On Friday evening the Senior Extension club will sing on the square. Saturday night recordings will be played. Other organizations will sing next week with a special program listed for Christmas eve, Paul Whitmoyer, recreation director said.

Loud speakers are to be placed on the balcony of the Hotel Gettysburg to amplify the voices of the choristers.

CORONER'S JURY CLEARS DRIVERS

Justice of the Peace John C. Smith, of Springettsbury township, will decide at 7:30 tonight whether or not Bennie W. Breeden, Thomasville, will be held for the grand jury on the manslaughter charge growing out of the death of his grandfather-in-law, Sewell Franklin McDaniel, 75, of Thomasville, on November 29.

The charge was brought before Smith by State Policeman Edward A. Moss, right after the unusual accident near Thomasville, in which McDaniel and two women were knocked down by one car and a few minutes later McDaniel was run over while still lying on the highway, by Breeden's car.

Breeden was recommitted to the county jail Tuesday night in $1,000 bail pending Smith's decision. He did not testify in either case.

The hearing was held immediately after a six-man coroner's jury brought back a verdict that death was "due to an unavoidable accident."

The coroner's jury verdict, clearing Kenneth A. Walker, New Oxford as well as Breeden, apparently came as a distinct surprise to many of the witnesses, and Assistant District Attorney Clarence M. Lawyer, Jr., decided to go ahead with the hearing despite the verdict.

A coroner's jury verdict is not binding on either the prosecution or defense as far as any other action is concerned.

Pleads Guilty To Drunken Driving

William Harman, 46, of Gardner R. D., arrested by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station Tuesday night on a drunken driving charge, signed a plea of guilty this morning before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore, was held for court and was committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

Harman was treated at the Warner hospital Tuesday night for a laceration of the lower lip and laceration of the upper jaw suffered in an accident at Peach Glen which resulted in his arrest.

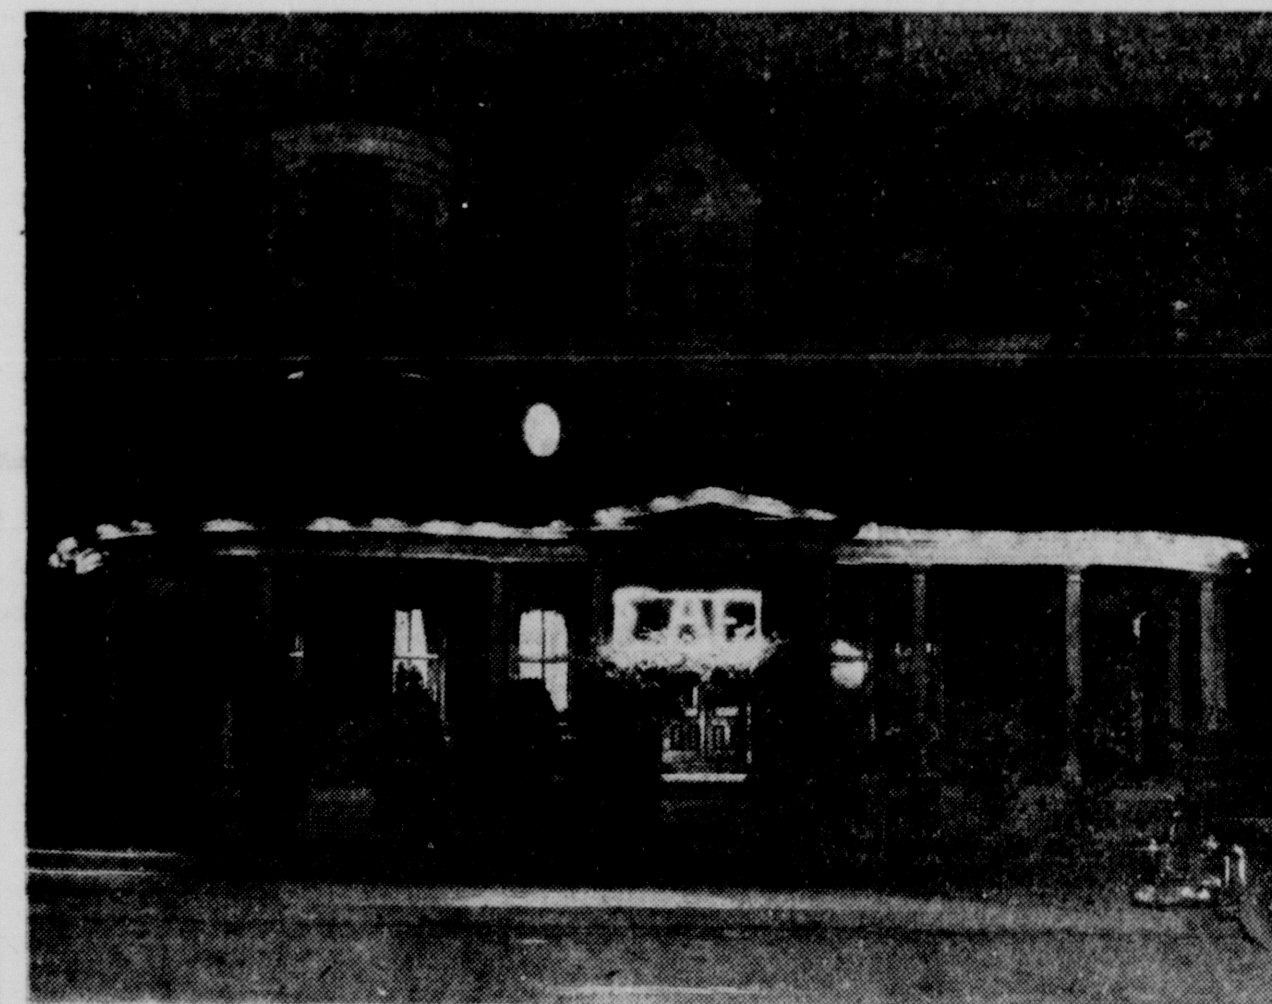

Harman was released on bond this afternoon.

CO. SPORTSMEN INSTALL NEW HEADS TUESDAY

Future meetings of the Adams County Fish and Game Association will be rotated between Cashtown, Fairfield and Gettysburg, members of the organization decided at a meeting Tuesday evening at the court house here.

Floyd King, Orrtanna, was installed as president of the association, with John Bieseker, Cashtown, secretary, and George T. Rafensperger, Gettysburg, treasurer, installed at the same time.

The new officers selected Cashtown as the site of the next meeting to be held January 15. The following month Fairfield will be the place for the session and the next Gettysburg meeting will be held in March.

Plan Shooting Match

Plans were announced for a membership drive to begin immediately and plans were also discussed for a shooting match to be held in the near future at Cashtown, as soon as arrangements can be completed.

Discussion among the members revealed that the kill of deer was one of the largest in history during the recent hunting season. Members also reported seeing a number of buck that had been killed and left in the hills during the antlerless season Saturday.

Plans for providing feed for deer and other game during the worst part of the winter were postponed until the January session.

The need in Europe and Asia is perhaps greater now than at any other time since the war and it is contributions such as the materials from Gettysburg which will help to relieve the suffering this winter, according to a CARE official.

Fifty dollars reward has been offered by C. W. Epley, Chambersburg street garage proprietor, for information leading to the arrest of the person who shot his dog, according to a display advertisement in today's Times.

"Scotty," 10-year-old Irish Terrier, disappeared from Epley's garage last Thursday. He returned shortly before noon Saturday, covered with burrs, shaggy and dirty. Mr. Epley washed and treated him for what he thought was a dog bite on the neck. "Scotty," however, was listless and appeared tired until Tuesday afternoon when Mr. Epley noticed a lump developing on the top of the dog's head. A veterinarian was consulted who discovered that "Scotty" had been shot in the right side of the neck, the bullet emerging from the top of his head.

H. DEAN STOVER PRESENTS TALK ON LIGHTNING

H. Dean Stover, a member of the faculty of the Littlestown high school, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Rotary club held Tuesday evening in the banquet hall of Schottie's hotel. Mr. Stover, who was introduced by the chairman of the Community Service committee, Richard A. Little, spoke on "Static Electricity." He gave a number of illustrations of its actions and demonstrated them. He also explained the practical use of the electroscope which is used to determine a positive or a negative charge.

Mr. Stover in the course of his address, dispelled the idea of any one certain kind of lightning, such as heat lightning or balls of lightning, saying that there is only one kind and that is a stroke of lightning. "The best thing to protect from lightning is steel conduction; lightning rods are very effective in controlling the danger of lightning, only if they are well grounded; they do not direct lightning but neutralize the field." The speaker also explained other details along the same lines.

The president, Edward T. Richardson was in charge of the business session. There was group singing under the direction of the Rev. David S. Kammerer. The other members of the committee in charge of the program were Dr. Donald B. Ccover, William V. Sneringer, Howard G. Blocher, Dr. Joseph R. Riden, Walter P. Crouse and Arthur E. Bair.

"SNOW TROOPS" READY TO KEEP HIGHWAYS OPEN

Adams county's state highway "snow troops" and "battle wagons" are ready for the worst that Old Man Winter can throw at them, with new equipment and 20,000 additional feet of snow fence, Superintendent R. P. Tipple revealed today.

The snow fence has all been erected, including 82,000 feet left over from last year, plus the 20,000 feet of new fence. The snow plows stand ready to take to the highways anytime. King Boreas hurls his storms out of the air, and the highway department said today it can muster 75 or more men to battle the ice and drifts if and when they occur.

Have New Equipment

The state garage has a new four-wheel drive truck with V-plow and two wings which will be used almost exclusively for snow-fighting, Mr. Tipple said. It arrived recently and is ready to operate. This powerful piece of equipment is the dreadnaught of the local battle forces. It has other new equipment. Twenty other trucks with plows attached can be brought into use in the event of a blizzard.

The state force here will plow 213.01 miles of main highways and 106.08 miles of rural roads in Adams county this winter whenever the need arises, Mr. Tipple said.

"Not all improved roads in the county are on this snow-plowing program," he added, however. "We will plow the secondary improved roads immediately after the highways on our regular schedule are open."

Forces Are Alerted

Motorists who drive elsewhere throughout Pennsylvania this winter will find the state's department forces similarly marshalled to do a good job in keeping the highways open to traffic.

"Highway department maintenance forces have been alerted to assume battle stations for their annual winter struggle with the elements," Warren K. Myers, chief maintenance engineer said. "Already crews in some sections have had their preliminary workouts."

Adams county maintenance men have had their first taste of winter in cinderling operations.

Pennsylvania's highway system of approximately 40,800 miles in the largest in the nation, according to Mr. Myers. There are 21,000 miles of improved road on the program for complete winter service, including removal of snow and cinderling. Records quoted by the state department show that the Pennsylvania officials furnish winter service on more miles of road than any other state.

Heavy Expense

The cost of snow removal in the state last winter was approximately $350 per mile. This, said Mr. Myers, was almost as much as all other items of surface maintenance combined, such as patching, mowing, painting traffic lines, repairing worn (Continued on page 2)

CLUB MEMBERS WILL REHEARSE FOR FARM SHOW

Biglerville residents will have an opportunity Thursday night—if they wish to look on—to have a preview of the "Song of the Seasons" rural talent festival to be held January 13 at the State farm show.

At least they may see part of the festival—the square dancing part—when the members of the Senior Extension clubs of Adams, York, Franklin, Cumberland and Perry counties gather at the Biglerville grade school building to stomp and stamp and swing and sway to the music of old time fiddlers and the musical hubble that is the mark of the square dance caller.

While all members of the Adams county senior extension club, as well as most of the members of the clubs from other counties are scheduled to be present for the first square dance practice to be held at Biglerville, eventually the best including 16 Adams counties will be selected to participate in the state wide Rural Talent Festival at Harrisburg.

W. R. Gordon, extension rural sociologist from State College, who spoke here recently at the First National bank stockholders' dinner and who is in charge of the "Song of the Seasons," the annual festival in connection with the state farm show, today said that the meeting at Biglerville is but one of a number throughout the state as farm groups begin practices for the annual show.

The program at Harrisburg, Gordon said, will be similar to one staged at last winter's farm show by a cast of 850 adults and youths from 35 counties before an audience of between 8,000 and 9,000 persons. The theme song will be sung as a solo, a part in the program yet to be assigned.

Gordon said initial entries indicate increased participation by rural groups. The whole program is designed to suggest something of the substance and value of community group activity and of farming as a way of life.

Again, members of church choirs and other singing groups will comprise the mixed chorus. In this group will be 300 vocalists assembled specially for the one performance which has come to be regarded as one of the entertainment highlights of farm show week. William J. Cupp, Bangor, Me., and formerly of New Bloomfield, Perry county, will be directing his third farm show chorus.

SPORTSMEN TO DISCUSS PLANS

Upper county sportsmen are scheduled to hold a full meeting Thursday night at the Biglerville fire hall, according to plans being discussed for the session. The meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

President Charles Gulden said today that one of the first things on the agenda will be a rapid survey of how well the 200 members of the Upper County Fish and Game association made out during the recent hunting season.

A second subject for discussion will be plans concerning the feeding of birds and deer this winter, if the snows fall and the hills in the upper section close up tight, preventing the flocks and herds from finding food.

In addition the club will have to make arrangements for handling some 350 Missouri rabbits which have been purchased for restocking and which will arrive some time in January.

"Residents of rural areas do not stock provisions as they formerly did and it is imperative that our roads be made available for use 365 days a year when possible. That is the department's aim. YORK DRIBBLERS LOSE 1ST TILT TO YORK 44-30

A fast, sharp-shooting York high school basketball team handed the Gettysburg high school dribblers their initial defeat of the season Tuesday evening at York by a 44-30 score.

Paced by Captain Hamme, leading scorer in the Central Pennsylvania league last year, the York countians led throughout. Hamme accounted for 14 points and "iced" the game early in the third period when he landed four goals in about a minute and a half of play after the opening of the quarter.

The Maroons were handicapped throughout the second half by the absence of Kenny Fair who was forced out due to an indisposition. Gettysburg scored first in the game on Eisenhart's foul for the Maroons' only lead during the game. Brown sent York ahead with a goal. Later in the period the Forney-men knotted the score at 7-all but York started to take an 11-8 margin at the period.

York Spurts
Early in the second period the Maroons came to within one point of York but each York player contributed a goal to put the Orange and Blue quintet out in front 23-12 at half time.

Hamme's scoring spree removed all doubt as to the ultimate outcome early in the third quarter and at the start of the final quarter the Maroons trailed 37-20.

Coach Forney's lads were held to seven field goals by the tight York defense. The Maroons were again efficient performers from the foul line, gaining 16 points on 25 attempts. York made good on but six of 14 free throws.

Scrubs Defeated
The Maroon reserves were outclassed in the preliminary game and dropped a 48-23 verdict for their first loss of the season.

On Friday evening the Maroons will attempt to get back in their winning stride when St. Francis Prep is met here.

Delaware Cagers Play Here Tonight

This evening at 8 o'clock on the college floor the Gettysburg college cagers will be host to the Delaware university basketball team.

The Blue Hens are coming here confident of upsetting the Bullets. After losing to Temple last week the Delaware outfit showed great promise in winning easily over Washington college Saturday night.

If their last half performance against Albright is to be taken as a criterion the Bullets can be counted upon for a fine exhibition. Coach "Hen" Bream was highly pleased with his team's showing against the strong Lions and expects them to show continued improvement.

Tonight's game will be the Bullets' final contest until after the holidays when Dickinson comes here on January 7.

Williamsport Signs Desautels Manager

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 17 (AP)—The Williamsport Tigers of the class A Eastern league have signed Gene Desautels, former big league catcher, as manager for 1948.

Desautels played in the American league for 11 years with the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics. Last season Desautels caught for Toronto of the International league.

JOHNS HOPKINS MAT TEAM HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

What may prove to be the outstanding wrestling match to be staged here this year is listed for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock when Clyde Cole's Gettysburg college grapplers tangle with the strong Johns Hopkins university squad of Baltimore.

As an added attraction prior to the game the semi-finals and finals of the college table tennis tournament will be staged, beginning at 7 o'clock.

The Bullets are intent on gaining revenge over the Hopkins tribe for the 14-12 defeat sustained last year at Baltimore. That was one of the two defeats suffered by the locals last season.

Johns Hopkins has another fine squad this year which has been augmented by three Maryland Association Scholastic champions of last year. All are expected to be in the lineup as the Maryland school permits use of freshmen.

Three Ex-Champs
The newcomers include Bob Lang, 155; Charles Black, 165, and Bill Schaeffer, 136. Another promising new lad on the Hopkins squad is Ben Dozier, heavyweight.

Veterans remaining from last year include Francis Brown, 175; Fred Smith, 145, and Harry Tighe, 128. Last Saturday the Bullets opened their season with an impressive 27-3 verdict over Lafayette and Coach Cole is expected to nominate the same starters.

Gettysburg entries will probably be: 121, Sam Schmittenner; 128, Dick Dodds; 136, Ted Lenker; 145, Joe Erb; 155, Lonnie Sault; 165, Russ Reigel; 175, Dick Binder, and heavyweight, Charles Reider.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

With Wonder And Curiosity
The more we think of our place here on this earth of ours, of how mysterious and miraculously we are filled with wonder, and our inborn curiosity begins early to be aroused. It all begins to manifest itself even in childhood.

Why are we here, for what purpose, and what is our destiny to be?
Who can say? But the fact is that we are here, and we should be inspired to make the most of it. No miracle ever spoken or written about can compare to the miracle of our birth, and the intricate construction of this body of ours.

Death is no more mysterious than birth. Each is a part of life—the beginning and the ending. Yet who can say when the real beginning of this mortal life of ours actually began? Perhaps centuries ago, or at a timeless period. And who can say that the same is not true of our earthly end in death?

To make the best of this life, here and now, is the only important problem to be attended to by each one of us—to make life as good and comfortable and hopeful as possible —thus doing our share to make this a better world over all. We can well leave all else to a Higher Power than our own—to that One who gave us consciousness, love, hope, and faith.

There is nothing insignificant about spreading cheer wherever one goes, doing a kindness at every opportunity, and seeking to inspire others with the hope and faith that we may possess. Life itself is significant where such a procedure is accomplished. Ah, how many of us daily need a lift of some sort each day of our lives—and how very easy it is for any of us to give that lift if we will but do it!

Certainly the mental and spiritual gain to such action is far more worthy than to have earned an extra dollar, or even a hundred, or a thousand. The gain to the heart is so vastly superior to that of the pocketbook or the bank! No strain of music, no matter how divinely devised, can possibly compare to the song of the singing soul.

The wonder of it all—the beauty of it—this life that we have to handle! And how great the opportunity to make it significant in an endless number of ways!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Human Investments"

SUGGESTION TO MEN
If you need another shirt
Or a necktie, hesitate!
Someone's feelings you will hurt
If to get it you don't wait.

If your handkerchiefs are low,
Drop a gentle hint somehow.
Let somebody who loves you know,
But don't rush to get them now.

Get along as best you can.
Heed the women when they say:
"It's so hard to buy a man Anything for Christmas Day."

Wait for Christmas for your ties!
You will soon again be trim.
Women hate the man who buys
What they've planned to give to him!

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—One baseball man who won't talk about the possibility of an All-Boston World series next fall is Billy Southworth, manager of the Braves. . . "Our club will be better next year," Billy admits, "but it will have to improve to finish even as high as this season.
The other clubs will be improved, too. The Giants will be very dangerous if they can get some more pitching to go with their attack and the Cardinals and Dodgers always are the teams to beat." . . . Gosh, he almost sounds like a football coach.

Southworth figures the biggest gains his club has made are the improvement of Earl Torgeson, and the acquisition of Jeff Heath and Jim Russell. . . "I can't wait to see Heath in action," Billy chuckles.

"He'll be a great help in run getting.
I think Russell will be the ball player everybody predicted he would be.
And Torgeson—he improved so much late in the season that I think he'll go against any kind of pitching."

CHAPTER II

Mr. Sleek Tricks Tom

Tom did not understand why Mr. Sleek was so furious to find that he had gotten a red sheep's wool. And he did not understand why Mr. Sleek should have thrown the wool away.

"But," he told himself, "all of this means nothing to me if he shows me where I can find a star."

So he followed Mr. Sleek as the evil creature led him out of the park, out of the city, and down a country road.

When they finally stopped night had come and the sky was dark except for a lonely star or two. They stood in a deserted farmyard and Mr. Sleek pointed to a hole in the ground which was surrounded by a low wall of stones.

"There," he said sharply, "you will see your star."

Eagerly Tom leaned over the stone wall and peered into the hole. Sure enough, a silver star was shining there!

"Oh, thank you!" cried Tom joyously, and he reached deep, deep into the hole to grasp the precious thing. But his hands dipped into water and he drew back, speechless with horror.

For the silver star was not real at all. It was only a star far above in the sky reflected in the waters of a well.

Tom's eyes filled with tears and he turned to beg Mr. Sleek to explain it was only a joke and that the star was still to be had. But Mr. Sleek had disappeared.

Poor Tom! He wished for a moment he was a girl so that he might cry right out loud. He stumbled down the dark road home to Mizoo and he was as tired as any little boy would be who had been so far in so short a time.

He went into his house and his mother said, "Oh Tom, where have you been?"

"I've been looking for a star to decorate our tree," he said, turning his face away.

She put her arms around him. "Perhaps some year we will have a merry Christmas," she told him gently. "But this year Christmas is not for the people as poor as we."

Then she gave him his supper and put him to bed. He lay there awake and watched his mother as she picked up the one room house.

"Her dress is so thin," he thought. "And she has no coat—only a shawl. And her only shoes are six years old." And then he really did weep a little as he thought of the green silk dress, the fur coat, and pair of shoes which some other child would win for his mother.

The next day he returned to school. But there were no lessons to be read that day.

"Today," said the teacher, "you may work on the decorations for your trees."

"But," protested the children, "our daddies are buying decorations at the store."

"That is all right," said the teacher. "But to win the prize each tree must have something you have

News Of Interest To Upper Communities Of County

TREE FARMS IN COUNTY ATTRACT WIDE ATTENTION

The current issue of the Pennsylvania Game News utilizes the story of the Glazco tree farms in upper Adams county for its lead editorial, entitled "A Sign of Good Citizenship."

Concerning the tree farms the game news says: "Late in October the first tree farm in Pennsylvania was dedicated in Adams county. It consisted of some 600 acres, called the Glazco Woodland and is owned and operated by the Glazco Pulp Wood company, Spring Grove, as an industrial forest for the production of pulp wood."

"In view of the disheartening historical past of forestry as practiced in Penn's woods, we feel that this tree farm is a right step in a new direction—one that should eventually lead to once again placing Pennsylvania among the top forest products states."

Timber Is Crop
"Under the sponsorship of the Department of Forests and Waters along with the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, the tree farm system, already active in 18 states, encourages better woodland management by private owners. It is based on the conception that timber is a crop of the soil which can be grown in such a manner as to give a sustained yield harvest."

"This concept is not new; it is the backbone of conservation of all our renewable natural resources. Nevertheless, it is to the credit of made or found or earned for yourself."

So the children set to work, but not very happily because they felt their most beautiful decorations would come from the store.

Sally Masters had a bowl full of cranberries and was stringing them on a long red thread. "Mine will be a cranberry tree," she explained. "With bright red flakes in a storm."

John O'Neil painted china lights. "My daddy will arrange the electric wires," said he, "but the lights will be all mine."

Edward cut out strips of tinsel to hang on his tree and Margaret made cones of colored paper for hers. George painted pine twigs and Marnie made a chain of paper rings.

And while the children worked Tom Clover sat at his desk and studied his books.

"Why, Tom," said the teacher. "What will you have on your tree?"

The children stopped their work and gathered round and hooted: "He's the boy who is hunting stars!"

"He wants to hang Mars 'On his Christmas tree!'"

The teacher laughed and laughed. "That's silly," she said. "How could you ever get a real star, Tom? You must not dream so much!"

Then Tom was filled with anger again for had he not got a red sheep's wool? He glared at the children around him and said, "I will too get a star. Wait and see!"

"Go and find it then!" howled the children, and the teacher nodded as she laughed at the joke.

"Yes, yes, go and find it, for you must learn to be more practical."

So Tom got up and went away and he thought, "I won't give up. I'll still find a way."

the sponsors of this movement that the old theory of sustained yield has been at long last brought into the realm of practicability for the small woodlot owner. He, unlike the cut out and get out, foresters of a blacker day in Pennsylvania's past, must live with his land for life. A full utilization of all that land, whether it be six acres or six hundred, is of the utmost importance not only to the individual, but, also, to the state. Permanent forests and a never-ending series of profitable tree crops will do much to raise the Commonwealth's economy.

Standards Are Set
"Any landowner holding title to five or more acres can enroll in the tree farm movement providing he meets certain qualifications and standards. The owner must protect his property from forest fires and excessive grazing."

"Secondly, he must follow approved forest practices in order to assure continuous production of commercial timber crops. Finally, the forest plantation must not be used primarily for the production of Christmas trees."

"If this plan is adopted on a wide scale in Pennsylvania, we can expect to see within our lifetime a reforestation of our vast areas of burned over, stripped off, or timbered off lands. Game cover would be restored, soil erosion would be halted, streams would become clean and habitable for fish, floods would be averted, a major labor market would open, and many rural communities would regain a now faltering stable economy."

"We believe the Pennsylvania tree farm system will become a symbol of wise land utilization. It marks the beginning of a new trend of thought even as it signifies the end of the era of exploitation. Now, at long last, a plan for sound forest management has become a sign of good citizenship."

When the youngsters leave the school premises Tuesday morning, however, they will be well launched on their celebration of the Christmas season. Superintendent Stock promised.

Each of the schools is planning to have some special activity during the last hour of the school day Tuesday and Santa Claus will travel over the school district visiting the various rooms during the course of the parties.

Varied Programs
At Biglerville high school, the mixed choruses will present a Christmas program of carols at the morning assembly. Later that morning the home rooms will hold Christmas parties.

At the Arendtsville and Biglerville elementary centers, at Wenksville, Bendersville and Locust Grove, the teachers are planning to hold parties for the youngsters on the closing day.

Superintendent Stock said today that the various programs would be as varied as the ideas that come to the various teachers and pupils, with each school "on its own" in plans for the holiday party.

HARDER LEADS NAT. SCORERS

Philadelphia, Dec. 17 (AP)—Pat Harder, fullback on the western division winning Chicago Cardinals, is the new scoring king of the National football league with 102 points—the fourth highest mark in league history.

Final statistics released today showed Harder reached that total by scoring seven touchdowns and kicking seven field goals and 39 extra points. Dick Pollon of Washington finished second with 85 points and Steven Van Buren—the Philadelphia Eagles' all-time ground gaining titlist—was third with 84 points.

Both Van Buren and Steve Lach of the Pittsburgh Steelers registered more touchdowns than Harder; in fact Van Buren got twice as many. But it was Harder's accurate kicking toe (he missed only one extra point attempt all year) that won him the honor.

His 1947 total was two points better than the mark with which Ted Fritsch of Green Bay won in 1946—36 points under the all-time record of 138 points set by Don Hutson, also of Green Bay, in 1942. But in all NFL history only Hutson (who also had 117 points in 1943) and Van Buren have scored more points in a single season than Harder. Van Buren had 110 points in 1945.

Van Buren, who finished third in the title this year but shattered the all-time record of 1,004 yards which Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears established back in 1934.

Van Buren made the 1947 ground gaining race a one-man show. His nearest competitor, Johnny Clement of Pittsburgh, gained only 670 yards, while the top man in the western division—Tony Canadeo of Green Bay—got only 464 yards.
